(Ord. of 5-13-03, § 14)

Sec. 19-79. - Provisions of article prevail in case of conflict.

The provisions of this article shall govern and take precedence over any other provisions of any ordinance or codes of the City of Ville Platte.

(Ord. of 5-13-03, § 15)

Sec. 19-80. - New construction.

Proposals for new construction in the City of Ville Platte Historic [District] should seek compatibility with existing structures through the appropriate use of site planning, materials, decorative details, architectural elements, and scale. A proposal should not draw unnecessary attention to itself in any one of these characteristics. However, a proposal should not duplicate or copy historic styles and periods. The architectural context is of primary concern.

- (a) Scale—The relationship of the building and its elements (including doors and windows) to other structures in the district. It is important in considering scale that a careful study is made of the height, width, and mass of buildings in the immediate neighborhood and district as a whole. This study should serve to confirm or deny the appropriateness of the height, width, and mass of the proposed building. Maximum height of any new structure shall conform to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties with Guidelines for Preserving, Rehabilitating, Restoring & Reconstructing Historic Buildings, a copy of which shall be made available at the Ville Platte branch of the Evangeline Parish Public Library. In no case shall a new structure exceed a height of 75 feet above the street unless approved by the historic district commission.
- (b) Siting—The positioning of a building on a lot. This process includes determining the setback of a building, the spacing of the building from adjacent buildings, and the locations of the walls, fences, walks, drives, and landscaping, if any of these are used in the overall design.
- (c) Materials—The surface building fabric, which contributes to the exterior character and appearance of a building.

- (d) Decorative details—Ornamentation or embellishment. These include cornices, lintels, arches, balustrades, chimneys, shutters, columns, and other common details. When used, details should create a unifying effect on a building and should be compatible with the context of the neighborhood.
- (e) Architectural elements—Parts of buildings that are integral to its composition. These include balconies, roofs, porches, chimneys, dormers, parapets, and other parts of a building that contribute to its overall shape and silhouette. The choice and arrangement of elements of a proposed building should reflect those buildings in the neighborhood. The building should not draw unnecessary attention to itself by failing to relate to neighboring styles, but neither should it copy these styles. The object is to compliment the context of the City of Ville Platte Historic District. The City of Ville Platte Historic District Commission shall follow the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties with Guidelines for Preserving, Rehabilitating, Restoring & Reconstructing Historic Buildings in considering all proposals for new construction and/or rehabilitation.

Sec. 19-81. - Standards for preservation, rehabilitation, restoration, and reconstruction.

(a) Standards for preservation.

- (1) A property will be used as it was historically or be given a new use that maximizes the retention of distinctive materials, features, spaces, and spatial relationships. Where a treatment and use have not been identified, a property will be protected, and if necessary, stabilized until additional work may be undertaken.
- (2) The historic character of a property will be retained and preserved. The replacement of intact or repairable historic materials or alteration of features, spaces, and spatial relationships that characterize a property will be avoided.
- (3) Each property will be recognized as a physical record of its time, place, and use. Work needed to stabilize, consolidate, and conserve existing historic materials and features will be physically and visually compatible, identifiable, upon close inspection, and properly documented for future research.
- (4) Changes to properties that have acquired historic significance in their own right will be retained and preserved.
- (5) Distinctive materials, features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a property will be preserved.
- (6) The existing condition of historic features will be evaluated to determine the appropriate level of intervention needed. Where the severity of deterioration requires repair of limited replacement of a distinctive feature, the new material will match the old in composition, design, color, and texture.
- (7) Chemical or physical treatments, when determined appropriate, will be undertaken using the greatest means possible. Treatments that cause damage to historical material will not be used.
- (8) Archeological resources will be protected and preserved in place. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures will be undertaken.

When the property's distinctive materials, features, and spaces are essentially intact and thus convey the historic significance without extensive repair or replacement; when depiction at a particular period of time is not appropriate; and when a continuing or new use does not require additions or extensive alterations, preservation must be considered as a treatment.

(b) Standards for rehabilitation.

- (1) A property shall be used as it was historically or be given a new use that requires minimal change to its distinctive materials, features, spaces, and spatial relationships.
- (2) The historic character of a property shall be retained and preserved. The removal of distinctive materials or alterations of features, spaces, and spatial relationships that characterize a property shall be avoided.
- (3) Each property shall be recognized as a physical record of its time, place and use. Changes that create a false sense of historical development, such as adding conjectural features or elements from other historic properties, shall not be undertaken.
- (4) Changes to a property that has acquired historic significance in its own right shall be retained and preserved.
- (5) Distinctive materials, features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a property shall be preserved.
- (6) Deteriorated historic features will be repaired rather than replaced. Where the severity of deterioration requires replacement of a distinctive feature, the new feature will match the old in design, color, texture, and where possible, materials. Replacement of missing features shall be substantiated by documentary and physical evidence.
- (7) Chemical or physical treatments, if appropriate, shall be undertaken using the gentlest means possible. Treatment that cause damage to historic materials will not be used.
- (8) Archeological resources will be protected and preserved in place. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures shall be undertaken.
- (9) New additions, exterior alterations, or related new construction will not destroy historic materials, features, and spatial relationships that characterize the property. The new work will be differentiated from the old and shall be compatible with the historic material, features, size, and proportion, and massing to protect the integrity of the property and its environment.
- (10) New additions and adjacent or related new construction shall be undertaken in such a manner that, if removed in the future, the essential form and integrity of the historic property and its environment would be unimpaired.

When repair and replacement of deteriorated features is necessary; when alterations or additions to the property are planned for a new or continued use; and when it depiction at a particular period of time is not appropriate, rehabilitation must be considered as a treatment.

(c) Standards for restoration.

- (1) A property shall be used as it was historically or be given a new use which reflects the property's restoration period.
- (2) Materials and features from the restoration period shall be retained and preserved. The removal of materials or alteration of features, spaces, and spatial relationships that characterize the period shall not be undertaken.
- (3) Each property will be recognized as a physical record of its time, place, and use. Work needed to stabilize, consolidate and conserve materials and features from the restoration period shall be physically and visually compatible, identifiable, upon close inspection, and properly documented for future research.
- (4) Materials, features, spaces and finishes that characterize other historical periods shall be documented prior to their alteration or removal.
- (5) Distinctive materials, features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize the restoration period shall be preserved.
- (6) Deteriorated features from the restoration period shall be repaired rather than replaced. Where the severity of deterioration requires replacement of a distinctive feature, the new feature shall match the old in design, color, texture, and where possible, materials.

- (7) Replacement of missing features from the restoration period shall be substantiated by documentary and physical evidence. A false sense of history shall not be created by adding conjectural features, features from other properties, or by combining features that never existed together historically.
- (8) Chemical or physical treatments, if appropriate, shall be undertaken using the gentlest means possible. Treatments that cause damage to historic materials will not be used.
- (9) Archeological resources affected by a project shall be protected and preserved in place. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures will be undertaken.
- (10) Designs that were never executed historically shall not be constructed.

When the property's design, architectural, or historical significance during a particular period of time outweighs the potential loss of extant materials, features, spaces, and finishes that characterize other historical periods; when there is substantial physical and documentary evidence for the work; and when contemporary alterations and additions are not planned, restoration may be considered as a treatment. Prior to undertaking work, a particular period of time, i.e., the restoration period, should be selected and justified, and a documentation plan for restoration is developed.

- (d) Standards for reconstruction shall be used to depict vanished or nonsurviving portions of a property when documentary and physical evidence is available to permit accurate reconstructions with minimal conjecture, and such reconstruction is essential to the public understanding of the property. Reconstruction of a landscape, building, structure, or object in its historic location shall be preceded by a thorough archeological investigation to identify and evaluate those features and artifacts which are essential to an accurate reconstruction. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures shall be undertaken. Reconstruction shall include measures to preserve and remaining historic materials, features, and spatial relationships. Reconstruction shall be based on the accurate duplication of historic features and elements substantiated by documentary or physical evidence rather than on conjectural designs or the availability of different features from other historic properties. A reconstructed property shall recreate the appearance of the non-surviving historic properties in materials, design, color and texture. A reconstruction shall be clearly identified as a contemporary re-creation. Designs that were never executed historically shall not be constructed.

When a contemporary depiction is required to understand and interpret a property's historic value (including the re-creation of missing components in a historic district or site); when no other property with the same associative value has survived; and when sufficient historical documentation exists to ensure an accurate reproduction, reconstruction may be considered as a treatment.

(Ord. of 5-13-03, § 17)

Sec. 19-82. - Fences.

Sec. 19-83. - Floodlights.
